

Who is the programme designed for?

The goal of the programme is to train highly qualified experts in international trade and trade policy analysis.

The content is tailored to active and ambitious students interested in creating brilliant career opportunities. They study peculiarities of the international trading system and tools for efficient trade policy development. Special focus is on leading international economic organizations, including the World Trade Organization (WTO) and the consequences of Russia's WTO accession.

Specifically, the programme is ideal for public and private sector trade professionals – people engaged in economics, finance, law, those who practice actively in international trade, investments and finance, and for those who have a specific interest in trade policy development.
